WE NOMINATE

Janet German Harbison, long a pace-setter in community affairs and one of Princeton's most perceptive and forceful citizens, whn has recently accepted the kind of honor, and challenge, rarely extended to members of her sex in the history of this country's religious organizations. A resident of Princeton for almost a quarter-century, and a ruling elder in the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. (an ordained life office), Mrs. Harbison is the lone distaff member of her denomination's nine-member Church Union Committee which under the leadership of Dr. James I. McCord, Princeton Seminary President, will he exploring the uncharted areas now separating empire-sized segments of Protestantism.

The "McCord-Harbison Committee," brought into being at the 173d General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, has been empowered to invite other Protestant churches to join it in conversations for the purpose of seeking to unite and form "a truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelistic church." The magnitude of this undertaking, described by a veteran commentator as "probably the most important and difficult task confronting Protestant churches," is clearly evident in the unique practices and beliefs each major sect, including Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Methodists, holds essential and inviolate.

The 45-year old Princeton matron, active in her own parish, the 114-year old Second Presbyterian Church, as well as in her denomination as associate editor of Presbyterian Life, a top-flight magazine reaching 3 million readers, has been led to accept her portfolio through her "loyalty and devotion to her church and Christianity in general." Well aware that union is not going to he engineered overnight, Mrs. Harbison is venturing into the ecclesiastical arena without preconditions, although she has fingered the heart of the matter in stating "I have no preconceived notions on union except I strongly feel the representative character of the Presbyterian Church should be preserved."

The wife of Elmore Harris (Jinx) Harbison, one of the distinguished historians of our time and also an elder in the United Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Harbison over the years has been a realistic and highly effective officer of a variety of Princeton service units. A past president of the YWCA, who a decade ago as Chairman of the National YW's Training Service Committee authored a well written, nationally distributed primer for volunteers, "Your YWCA," she has made major contributions to the functioning of the Tuberculosis League, the League of Women Voters, the University League and the PTA's of the Borough schools.

Mrs. Harbison, a native of East Orange, N. J., and a product of Maplewood's Columbia High School, earned her bachelor's degree with the Class of 1937 at Smith, where she majored in French, edited the weekly newspaper and (like her hushand, Princeton '28) achieved Phi Beta Kappa status. The Harbisons are the parents of three children: 15-year old Meg, bound for a Colorado boarding school in September; Helen, 19, a Smith junior about to embark upon a year of study In the Sorbonne, Paris; and 22-year old John, a Harvard graduate and promising composer, who in the Fall will launch advanced work in music here in the Princeton Graduate School.

For sensing that service to others must be a "real experience of satisfaction and growth"; for believing that "the reuninn of Christ's church is so important" that she is willing to give her best to advancing the cause of Protestant unification; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

ONE THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY: This giant snapping turtle was captured in a pond on the J. Dudley Clark property on Mountain Avenue by Joseph Srawara of Trenton. Snappers bad been killing ducks and geese in the pond by grabbing their feet and pulling them under, and Mr. Srawara captured three for the State Conservation Department. The pre-historic monster shown here ended in a tureen: Mr. Srawara owns a grill and likes to serve bome-cooked food. (Richard V. Steiner Photo)

This Is PRINCETON

THIS WAS PRINCETON

In 1929, "The business demands of the community are not yet sufficient to permit of more than very spotty development of Nassau and Witherspoon Street."

"A good location for an aviation landing field would be somewhere between Carnegie Lake and Princeton Junction."

The shimmer of a summer heat-wave can distort the clearest picture, but these statements are not distortions. They are quotations from the Borough's first Master Plan, released in June, 1928, by Russell Van Nest Black, now serving as traffic consultant to Princeton University.

Actually, although the landing field across the lake never quite materialized, the other proposals and conjectures in Mr. Black's plan are almost as up-to-date as a 1961 newspaper story.

In the hot June of 1928, Princeton was a community of 6,500 persons, chiefly attractive because it offered fine homes to semi-retired men and executives attached to "the industries flocking out along the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad."

But Princeton was not to remain small for many years, Mr. Black believed. He guessed that, within 40 to 50 years—that is, by 1969 or 1970—the community would have 25,000 to 30,000 or more. The 1960 census figures gave Borough and Township together about 23,000.

In a prophetic statement, which might have been made this spring at some heated Planning Board meeting, Mr. Black said:

"It is not offered here that increase in population for Princeton is a good thing or a bad, a thing to be desired or discouraged, but rather that, because of Princeton's location and because of present-day trends in the environs of Philadelphia and New York, growth is inevitable."

Eventually, he thought, the "Princeton plateau of rolling land (Township residents, besieged by sewer problems) will be amused to learn that he referred to the area as "well-drained") could accommodate 75,000, with plenty of parks and "other amenities".

A Look into the Future. To achieve these amenities, Mr. Black made a few suggestions. Today, 32 years later, some of them are still "issues" in the still-growing community:

• A park at the intersection of Mercer and Stockton, clearing the area of all buildings except Trinity Church and "Thompson Hall Park" (the building that eventually became Borough Hall.)

• Another park consisting of the three large estates then in existence south of Leigh Avenue, fronting on Bayard Lane: "Stonworth", now a University-owned apartment project; "Merwick", now the Hospital's geriatric unit; and "Avalon", the Henry S. Van Dyke property, now the YM-YWCA.)

• A "forest park belt" including the wooded streambottom of Stony Brook and the "wooded ridge" to the north. Mr. Black thought it would be a good idea to grow commercial timber on this recreational land as a "city forest".

• Several "relief streets", including a Bayard Lane-to-Ewing-artery through Greenhelm and including Jackson; a main north-south road at the east end of town incorporating a widened Ewing and Harrison; a road parallel to Nassau and south of it, probably an enlarged College Road, involving Western Way and Prospect, a circle route around the Borough in the Township and—a 206 by-pass.

• A parking space and community center on the Palmer Square style in the Witherspoon - Vandeventer - Nassau - Spring block.

• Wider streets. In 1929, Borough streets were narrower than they are today. Mr. Black, a wide-street man, wanted them to be even wider than they are now, although 10 years later, he said his suggestions might be extreme.

For example, he would have liked to see Stockton 40 to 56 feet wide, instead of the 35 feet it is today. Bayard Lane, now 30 feet, should be 36 to 45 feet, the planner said, and John Street, now a modest 19, should be 36 to 38 feet in width.

Washington Road, a well-travelled artery even in 1929, should be a maximum of 38 feet wide, Mr. Black believed. It is now 30 at its widest point. Harrison and Jackson should both be a maximum of 54 feet, according to Mr. Black. Harrison is now 30 and Jackson 26.

A Look at Palmer Square. Mr. Black's chief enthusiasm was the "Community Center," which was later to grow into Palmer Square. As envisioned by the planner, this center would be much as it is today, except for a few significant differences.

In the 1929 proposal, a municipal building was to stand where the Nassau Inn is today, flanked on either side by a post-office and a public library.

A commercial hotel was to occupy the equivalent of about eight stores on Palmer Square West. Apartments were to be built around the entire Hulfish, Witherspoon, Jackson, John block where the Princeton Playhouse, its parking lot and the Witherspoon stores now stand.

The entire Jackson-Green-Witherspoon-JJohn block, currently the object of so much urban renewal contention, was

Person To Person

The other day, we were given some interesting facts about lightning. In the United States each year, about five people in every million of population are struck and killed by lightning, which means about 900 will be fatally struck this year. Strangely, we have a great many more people struck each year, than most other countries of the world.

Studies have proved that lightning not only has struck twice in the same place, but has been known to strike many times in one place. Also, lightning does not follow drafts, as through an open window or door, but if the air stream were filled with smoke or vapor, it would offer a conductor for the lightning to follow, in which case, the lightning might be said to be attracted by such a draft.

It is not safe to stand near a chimney in such a storm, because an elevated object is a natural target, and the hot air in the chimney conducts electricity better than cold air and is more apt to carry the lightning than the surrounding air.

As in so many things, facts like these can only be had from experts in their field. Experience comes only from long prepared specialization, topped by years of practical experience, and it is just such backgrounds of our experts, that enables the fulfillment of our end of top satisfaction and economy for you.

TOWN TOPICS, July 19, 1951: B. Woodhull Davis, supervising principal of the Borough's public schools, recommended in his annual report a study of the district's future building needs, since next fall "every room in the high school will be used every period of each school day" . . . A High School Lazy Council was formed to improve parental understanding of certain problems involved in day-to-day operations . . .

The first year of warfare in Korea resulted in a 15 percent increase in the cost of food, as well as monthly drives to collect scrap metal and rags . . . Mayor P. MacKay Sturges was taking flying lessons to enable him to qualify as a pilot, thus reducing commuting time from his summer home at Shelter Island, N.Y., from six hours to one . . . construction was started on an $18,000 archway at the Springdale Road entrance to College Road, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley M. Dodge of Madison.

James M. Keels was named commander of Princeton Post 76, American Legion, succeeding D. Don Richards . . . Mrs. Pepper Constable won the women's singles tennis title, while Thomas Whitin became the men's champion for the second year in a row . . .

In baseball, the University named Eddie Donovan to succeed Enos-an Dickman, onetime Red Sox pitcher, as head coach . . . the Phanioms continued to lead the A League softball standings, with RCA on top in the B League and the Eagles and King's Inn tied for first in the Girl's League.

Eve Arden was next in the McCarter's summer program in "Here Today," a 19-year old comedy by George Oppenheimer. The Playhouse was billing Erio Pinza and Janet Leigh in "Strictly Dishonorable" . . . the Garden offering "Wyoming Mail," a western featuring Stephen McNally and Alexis Smith.

From Madrid, Spain, came a letter addressed to "the Principal of Princeton University," asking that "I be placed in touch with American young ladies who might like to write to me" . . . gasoline was priced at 23.9 cents a gallon, but available for two or three cents under that on nearby highways as the result of a price war . . . Names now missing from the business scene included the Fox Redding Employment Agency, the Better Mousetrap, The Moltone, the Easy-Method Dancer Training School, Gerber Chevrolet, Shadybrook Nurseries, Bootleggers Interiors and Brook Motors.

On the birth list at Princeton Hospital were daughters to Mr and Mrs. Maurice F. Heaney, Jr., Princeton Kingston Road; Mr and Mrs. David S. Carter, 19 University Place; one to Mr. and Mrs. William Russell, Wmant Road; Mr. and Mrs. David L. Georgy, Cleveland Lane; Mr and Mrs. Frederick M. Hecht, 216-A Halsey Street.

Palmer Square "Community Center".

"No single thing Princeton can do will go so redound to its credit and so add to its general attractiveness and livability as will this splendidly-conceived project," Mr. Black said.

Other comments on the 1929 Princeton scene [illegible] Mr. Black:

- "Sewage disposal for both Borough and the University is at present inadequate." (This was before the construction of the present disposal plant.)
- "Automobile parking has become a considerable problem in Princeton on certain hours of certain days."
- "The large Italian and Negro population is not all well-housed and some rather deplorable conditions occur, principally in the area north of Nassau."

- Restricting multiple family dwellings to certain areas of the Borough "would aggravate the tendency already existing toward social cleavage between the several sections of the Borough."
- "The existence of college playfields creates the delusion that there is abundance of play space for everybody."

Throughout his report, Mr. Black considers Borough and Township as one unit in his inclusion of a "forest park belt" along Stony Brook in a Borough document, and he concludes by saying:

"Together, the Borough and Township share the opportunity and responsibility set forth in this plan and report . . . the closest cooperation or consolidation is necessary. In the belief that consolidation will prove the most effective and is ultimately inevitable, consolidation is the recommendation of this report."

HOW FAST IS FAST?

Speed Discussed. Life-and-death matters of speed and traffic safety were considered Monday night as Township Committee heard a report from the Traffic Safety Committee, which has been studying these matters for some time.

Snowden Lane was the chief object of concern, and as a result of Committee's deliberations, the state highway department will be asked to approve a reduction of the speed limit from 50 to 30 miles an hour on Snowden.

The Traffic Safety group was also asked to provide definite recommendations for several other streets in the Township. When these have been made, Committee will send an additional request to the state.

Streets discussed, with their present limits and recommended limits, are:

Rosedale: 45 to 35; Route 206 at Ewing, 45 to 35; Stockton at Edgerstoune, 40 to 35; Mercer, 45 to 35. The state has already agreed to a Mercer reduction, but Committee does not feel that 45 is low enough.

"The County is interested in Rosedale, too," commented Joseph R. Nini, administrator, expressing the belief that the County's interest might be easier for the Township to obtain a speed reduction from the state.

Committee then considered the possibility of asking the Freeholders, the Township Board of Education Johnson Park School is on Rosedale) and Lawrence Township, for concurrent resolutions on the need for a reduced Rosedale limit.

THIS IS PALMER SQUARE. Well, let's put it this way: it's what was torn down to make room for Palmer Square. In this 1929 Nassau Street photograph, Hinkson's Stationery Store is behind the lamp-post on the right—exactly where it is today. On the other side of the arch is LaVake, the Jeweler; then Clayton's, with some ladies' hats in the window; then the old Music Shop, now part of the University Store; then the Brick Row Book Shop, long since out of print. What was the future of Princeton, as 1929 saw it? See story, page one.

Committeeman John S. Mount and Engineer James Breth told Committee that they had talked with property owners at the intersection and that these owners were opposed to any jug-handle solution of the traffic problem. Mr. Mount said that widening 206 would be the best solution, and Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman suggested widening it on both sides to reduce the amount of right-of-way that would be required from each side.

The Traffic Safety Committee was then asked to consider the matter and recommend to the State Highway Department a solution to the problem. The Ewing-206 intersection is the third most hazardous in the Township.

The fifth most hazardous spot in the Township is the Shopping Center Parking lot, according to Township police, and Committee discussed the possibility of asking the Shopping Center to work out traffic patterns and clearly marked lanes which might help reduce the accident rate.

The first and second accident spots in the Township are the Kingston and Mercer bridges. The fourth is Washington Road, although the accident rate has gone down there since the County resurfaced the roadway.)

Traffic Safety also recommended widening Edgerstone at the mouth of Stockton, to 35 feet, and opening the western end of the street to Rosedale Lane. Mr. Breth was asked to design a widened road for next year's capital improvements budget.

A county citizens' committee studying the sewer situation has requested that Mercer municipalities ask the county, formally, to sponsor a county-wide sewer master-plan study.

After some discussion, in which Councilman Maurice F. Healy, Jr. said he felt strongly that such a study should be regional in nature and not bound by the political boundary of the county, Committee passed the resolution, amending it according to Mr. Healy's motion, to include regional implications.

Mr. Breth said that the study had always considered the regional angle, and that the Freeholders would also, where necessary. The project is being done under the sponsorship of the state, with Federal funds, according to Mr. Breth.

In other business, T. Burnett Fisher was appointed to the Planning Board to replace Leonard Johnson, whose term expired on June 30, and who has declined another term. Gordon Griffin, Township attorney, was asked to prepare an ordinance for the sewering of part of Mt. Lucas Road (1800 feet, 17 property owners, $28,520. The area has had overflowing septic systems for some time.). A Cedar Lane sidewalk ordinance was introduced and public hearing scheduled for August 7. Lawrence Bayern, Terhune Road, was told that Jefferson Road sidewalks on both sides, are now being engineered for 1961.

MRS. LEON MAKES PLEA To Township Taxpayers

Mrs. Rene Leon of Drakes Corner Road has urged all Township taxpayers to attend Monday's session of the Township Committee to oppose a large-scale bond issue. Mrs. Leon termed the project part of a "spending spree" and called for "a moratorium on development in the Township."

The specific ordinance to which she is objecting authorizes a $76,700 bond issue to cover the improvement of Franklin Avenue, the grading and seeding of seven acres of Community gardens, the completion of the Grover Avenue playground and the acquisition of a lot at the north end of John Street. It would be the second long-term bond issue by the municipality.

Mrs. Leon cited the spending of "thousands of dollars for recreation" as an example of waste. "Surely children can play on the available land without the outlay of vast sums," she said and suggested that children could help build their own playground.

She is also opposed to the straightening of the Great Road and the construction of a sewer along the Great Road (neither of which will be before the Committee Monday night). There should be no further development in the municipality where sewers are required because this will only further pollute the Township sewer system, Mrs. Leon feels.

ACCIDENT IS FATAL To Elderly Driver, Japhet

B. Woolston, 73, of Trenton, died Friday afternoon in Princeton Hospital of injuries incurred Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. in a two-car collision on Route 206 at the Nassau Oil Company's driveway.

According to Township police, Mr. Woolston was driving south on the state highway with Mrs. Woolston as his passenger. William F. Plude, 41, of Nixon, was heading north. Mr. Plude reportedly swerved into the left lane and struck the Woolston car head-on, although Mr. Woolston, who had apparently seen the on-coming car, had steered as far right on the road as he could.

Mr. Woolston sustained severe chest injuries, multiple fractures of the ribs and a fractured knee-cap. Mrs. Woolston, 59, suffered a compound fracture and dislocation of the left ankle and multiple lacerations. Mr. Plude also suffered lacerations. All three were taken to Princeton Hospital by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. Mrs. Woolston and Mr. Plude are in satisfactory condition.

Mr. Plude was issued a summons for causing death by automobile by Township Police, who are continuing their investigation of the accident. It is the second fatal accident in Princeton Township this year.

CYANAMID MOVE SET To Princeton By Sept. 1.

The American Cyanamid Co. has announced that its agricultural division will complete its move here about September 1. The new division is located on a 640-acre tract on Route 1 and Quaker Bridge Road in West Windsor Township.

The new agricultural center combines development and laboratory research work with field testing conditions similar to those on a farm. Research will be conducted so animal science, plant science and chemistry. Approximately 500 employees will staff the center after the move is completed.

Research and development groups of Cyanamid located in Stamford, Conn., Pearl River, N. Y. and here will be relocated in the new center.

"ROADSIDE" SCHEDULED

Fourth Players' Offering

As their fourth production, Princeton Players will present "Roadside," a comedy by Lynn Riggs. The story of the American frontier will open next Wednesday at the Princeton Country Day School auditorium.

Mr. Riggs is also the author of "Green Grow the Lilacs," which later became the musical comedy "Oklahoma." "Roadside is based on ballad material, with the action taking place in Indian country in 1905.

The Players' production will be directed by John Crowther, co-producer of the Players, former president of the Princeton University Triangle Club and an actor in Theatre Intime. Mari Tucci, last seen in the lead of "I Am A Camera," will appear as Hannie, the lusty young Kansas girl. Edward F. D'Arms Jr., who was Pattiomkia in the Players' production of "Great Catherine," will portray Texas, the braggard vagabond whom Hannie pursues.

The Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday performances are scheduled for 8:30 p.m., while those on Friday and Saturday will be at 9 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling the box office, WAlnut 1-6508, or by writing the Players at P.O. Box 571.

"Endgame," a macabre comedy by Samuel Beckett, will be offered by the Players nightly through Sunday as their current production. It opened too late for review in the current issue of TOWN TOPICS.

GARDEN REFURBISHED

New Lobby, Seats Going In

The Garden Theatre is undergoing an interior face lifting in the form of a new lobby and downstairs seats. Work on the $25,000 project is being carried out during the day, with the theatre open in the evening.

As far as movie-goers are concerned, the new seats should be the most appealing addition. The management is putting in 565 "relax-recliner" seats, which tilt back slightly, and is keeping rows 36 inches apart to make access easier. The new spacing will reduce the capacity by 150.

In the lobby, wood panelling, acoustical ceiling and new lighting are being added. Also, a new ladies' room is being built in a portion of the present lobby.

Manager Richard Knight will go before the Borough Zoning Board next week to seek permission to add a marquee to the front of the 40-year old theatre. Otherwise, the exterior will remain the same, with the new poster cases and doors which were added last year.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Goodbye Again (July 19-25) appeals to this department simply because it stars Ingrid Bergman. In our estimation, although the modern movie queens are well enough constructed and occasionally can do a decent job of acting, none of them can compare to Miss Bergman. She has a certain warmth, apparent since her earliest films, which the others lack.

"Goodbye Again" dramatizes what has probably been the aspiration of many a young

Question of the Week

Question: In your opinion, does Princeton need a full-time mayor?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Miss Rosemary Gilstorf, 17 Fisher Avenue, bookkeeper First National Bank: I think the way the town is growing, Princeton, definitely will soon realize it needs a full-time mayor.

Miss Doris Briggs, Brunswick Pike, bookkeeper, First National Bank: I think so. The town is growing larger and I don't see how the mayor can handle all the problems adequately without devoting his full time to them.

Thomas Lynch, 25 Madison Street, custodian, Princeton University: Yes, the town is big enough to have somebody up there all the time so one can find out who is running the place. There's never anybody up there but the borough clerk.

Mrs. Arthur J. Pellichero, Highway 27, junior assistant for library circulation desk: Yes, definitely. I think one man should devote all his time to the office instead of trying to do two things at once.

Mrs. Joseph L. Stonaker, 206 Nassau Street, teacher: Yes. Mayor Male is doing a superlative job as Borough mayor, though his position is a time-consuming, exacting one. As Princeton expands, however, it will be impossible to expect dedicated citizens such as Mayor Male to cope with the increasing problems of local government on a part-time basis.

Robert Smyth, 32 Nassau Street, minister of Trinity Episcopal Church Rocky Hill. I think probably they do. When Mayor Sturges had the office, he was retired from business and I know he had plenty of time to give to the job and he gave it. I feel he was the best mayor we ever had. He certainly found it took a lot of time. But we can't be fortunate enough always to get a retired man to take the job.

Mrs. Harold Jones, Columbus Boy Choir School, housewife: Seems to me the town is doing all right the way it is. It is solving its problems. It would probably raise the taxes if we had to pay the salary of a full-time mayor.

George J. Knowles, 252 Hamilton Avenue, salesman. If the Township and the Borough were consolidated, it might warrant a full-time city manager or mayor or some sort of executive. As Princeton is now, with only 12,230 people, it doesn't need a full-time mayor. After all that isn't a very large number of people. I'll tell you one thing, though, in time they are going to need a full-time Police Commissioner.

Mrs. Henry Broad, 41 Pardoe Road, housewife: Yes, I think it would be desirable—and to have him mayor of a consolidated Princeton.

James Barbour, 17 Green Street, shipping and receiving clerk: Yes, I think Princeton has grown large enough that it now needs a full-time mayor.

Mrs. Arthur Beddoe, 747 Nassau Street, housewife: I'd like to see the Borough and Township consolidated and under those circumstances it would be necessary to have a full-time mayor.

Jon Heimreich, 416-B Devereux Avenue, student; Generally speaking, I would say a town of Princeton's size, and possessing, as Princeton does, a number of complex problems should have a full-time mayor. I'm one of those people who thing the Township and the Borough should get together, a situation which would make it mandatory to have a full-time mayor.

Sylvain Bromberger, Chicago, Ill., teacher, (former resident of Princeton. It all depends. If the Borough and the Township are going to consolidate, then, definitely it would need either a full-time manager or mayor. Even as separate entities, I would say there are enough problems and the administration is becoming sufficiently complex to warrant a full-time mayor.

Mrs. Barton Bowman, 91 Hun Road, housewife: I would say yes, I would say the way this little town is devolping into a much larger community that it needs a full-time mayor especially if the Borough and the Township consolidate. Then they definitely would need a full-time mayor.

FRESH, NEW FOOD MART

Bigger. Brighter. But still the same, personal kind of market, for shoppers who like a personal greeting, a personal attention to need, even if it's only the need for a single lamb chop.

Mr. Levine, who has owned the meat department of The Food Mart for 11 years, has now acquired the grocery part as well, and has remodeled the store on Witherspoon Street to a shiny, new brightness.

Without moving a single wall, he has somehow found a magic amount of additional space, removing the center wall of counters and substituting racks of soft-drinks, snacks and the like.

Along the walls are rows of brand new cabinets for canned goods and pickles and gallons of mayonnaise. Across the store are giant new bins for packaged cheese, milk, eggs, frozen turkeys, Sara Lee's banana cake, sliced Nova Scotia salmon, oyster stew, ice-cream and Pepperidge Farm strudle.

Those famous bulk cheeses in the meat department are now ranged behind glass partitions — rich and crumbling wine cheese, Longhorne, a splendid Holland Edam, a tall wheel of Cooper sharp.

The meat department remains the same, equipped as always to provide half a pound of hamburger or enough meat of any kind to stock your entire freezer. (Special discounts on freezer quantities, by the way.)

Over all this new and gleaming space, The Food Mart has a long streak of flourescent tubing to shine on the new green wall paint and the bright new floor of green and tan tile. Stop in and take a look.

Incidentally, in September, The Food Mart meat and grocery departments will launch a delivery service for women who come to the store to shop. Take your shopping list to Witherspoon Street, buy what you need and then ask Mr. Levine to deliver it for you. This will not be a phone order service, by the way; it is available only to women who come to the store to shop in person. Watch for the September announcement.

The Lamplighter

Mr. Donald Thompson of Levittown, who owns the Classic Post Lamp Company, probably knows more about early lights and lanterns than you ever thought there was to know. In his research for old patterns and worksheets used by the lamp-makers of the last century, he has picked up an astonishing amount of lore and information about gas and kerosene lamps.

The lamp you buy from him, for example will have a much larger "shade" than the usual commercial lamp. This is because the old lamps needed space and ventilation to carry off the smoke. Your lamp will be taller than you might guess because it was, after all, a street light, not just a yard decoration. But it will be considerably shorter than today's street light because its purpose was to illumine the pavement and its candlepower couldn't shine shine very far.

Send for Mr. Thompson's catalog, or chat with him when you go to Levittown. You'll be glad you did.

LAMPLIGHTER SERENADE

Authentic Lamps for Sale. The nostalgia many people feel for the old gas-light days is reflected in the formation of a new company called The Classic Post Lamp Company. This Levittown, Pennsylvania enterprise is the outgrowth of one man's interest in — we might almost say "passion for" — the old gas streets lights of Dickens, Sherlock Holmes and Mr. Welsbach.

The authentic lamps made and sold by this company include such rarities (such commercial rarities, that is) as the old Bartlett lamp which is a cluster of four globes on a standard, and the famous British Windsor lamp, which is a single, large trapezoidal glass enclosure on top of a straight shaft. This is the classic "lamp post" that most people think of when they mention lamp posts.

Classic Post Lamp, which operates from 90 Rose Apple Road in Levittown, makes these lamps for your driveway, entrance, patio, or where have you. The lamp posts are quite different in appearance from the usual modern post you've seen in front of houses. They are larger, more stately, and considerably more distinctive.

Donald F. Thompson, who designs and makes the lamps and owns Classic Post Lamps found his old designs in the course of hours spent with dusty old catalogs at the Philadelphia Free Library. He eliminated many of the fancier lamps, made in an era when labor was cheap and a workman could spend hours soldering together the many parts of an ornate lamp, and decided finally on three design groups: the Bartlett and Windsor lamps mentioned above, and the famous old designs made by the Welsbach Corporation and not-so-young American male—the pursuit of Miss Bergman by a young American male (Anthony Perkins). An older Frenchman (Yves Montand) who has been Miss Bergman's "amour" for about five years, provides the necessary complications. Miss Bergman really likes him, but he finds too many excuses for "business trips," so she whiles away a few lonely hours with the young American.

He has been lucky enough

News Of The Theatres

This thin but pleasant plot is backed up by the music of Brahms, as adapted by Georges Auric. Brahms is also present in the plot itself, as Perkins asks Miss Bergman to a Brahms concert for their first date (the Francois Sagan novel was entitled "Aimez-vous Brahms"). It is all put together to produce a sound mixture of humor and pathos.

The Naked Edge (July 26-August 1) uses the acting talents of two veterans, Deborah Kerr and Gary Cooper, to tell an utterly unconvincing suspense story. In fact, it is doubtful if there would be much suspense at all if it weren't for the deliberate tricks employed by director Michael Anderson, such as mixing positive-to-negative-to-positive shots for flashbacks and utilizing wierd camera angles.

Supposedly, Miss Kerr suspects her husband (Cooper) of being a murderer. It seems he was in the area of an office robbery and killing, and his testimony sent a fellow employee to prison for the crime. Several years later, Miss Kerr finds an old blackmail letter accusing her husband. That starts the tension-building antics of director Anderson as Miss Kerr's doubts increase. Throughout this, Cooper serves as backboard for her fears, a job for which the laconic star is particularly fitted.

Even the addition of a supporting cast composed of Hermione Gingold, Eric Portman, Diane Cilento, Ray McAnally and Sandor Eles doesn't help make the whole thing any more believable. "Psycho" was bad enough, but at least it didn't have to rely on such a synthetic plot.

THE GARDEN

The Sandians (July 20-22) picks one of the more interesting episodes of American history to tell a relatively drab story which, with a few changes, could have occurred one of a number of times during the movement west. The exodus of the Sioux, 6000 strong, to Canada following their defeat of Custer was indeed an historic march, but in this case it is little more than an excuse to get the colorful Royal Canadian Mounted Police into the act.

Even so, "The Canadians" is a good deal better than the average western. Although there is a familiar triangle (Indians, white men and the law), writer-director Burt Kennedy has avoided an early, explicit designation of "the good guys" and "the bad guys."

Three mounties (Robert Ryan, Torin Thatcher and Burt Metcalfe) offer the Sioux protection and medical aid in return for an agreement to use ammunition only for hunting, with the whole tribe to be banished if one white or red man is shot. But a party of Americans arrive on the scene to recapture a herd of stolen horses and attacks a Sioux settlement, carting off a Sioux squaw (Metropolitan Opera star Teresa Saratas, who is given a chance to do some singing as part of the booty). The mounties persuade the Sioux to let the white man's justice take its course and set off for Battleford and justice, followed by the Sioux. This trip consumes the greater part of the 85-minute film, in CinemaScope and color.

Never an Sunday (July 24-28) is a refreshing change from the melodramas, circus shows and westerns which have plagued the Garden screen of late. In fact it is a refreshing change from most everything which has visited the area screens recently. The reason is that writer-director-actor Jules Dassin has combined a light, entrancing tale with two good performances and the background of the Greek seaport of Piraeus.

The heroine (Melina Mercouri) is a prostitute; she likes her work. This may not sound like the basic ingredient of anything light and entrancing, but it becomes such when a serious-type American tourist (Dassin) arrives in Piraeus to seek the Truth and undertakes to reform Miss Mercouri. His task is not quite as impossible as it may sound because Miss Mercouri at least takes Sundays off to appreciate Greek drama (thus the title).

To this story, Dassin has added the musical score of Manos Hadjikaris, featuring the title song which collected an Oscar last spring. And then of course one cannot overlook the background provided by Piraeus, both in the form of scenery and atmosphere. Recommended.

NOT FOR COWARDS: The Lawrence Drive-In Theatre is so certain its current feature "Homicidal" is not for cowards that it has instituted a "fright break," a brief intermission 15 minutes before the end, so that timid souls can leave. Also showing is "Dial M for Murder."

HOME ENTERED

On Patton Avenue. The home of Glenn L. Jepsen of 144 Patton Avenue was entered last weekend. The entry was discovered Monday by Mrs. Alfred E. Sorenson of 150 Patton Avenue who was checking the home during Mr. Jepsen's absence.

Entry was gained by forcing a sun porch screen in the rear of the house. Once inside the sun porch, the thief broke a pane of glass on an inner door.

Personal belongings were scattered all over the house, police report, and it will be impossible to determine what was stolen until the owner returns. Sgt. James Kopliner and Detective Arthur Gallant are conducting an investigation.

Mr. Jepsen, a geology professor at Princeton University, is on a trip west.

TURKEY IS CHARRED

As Oven Catches Fire. A turkey and plans for a tasty dinner went up in smoke Saturday afternoon when the oven of Mrs. Rose H. Mintz of 34 Forrester Drive caught fire.

Sgt. James Kopliner and Pfc. Richard Panicaro responded to Mrs. Mintz's call for aid. They extinguished the fire with the patrol car extinguisher, limiting damage primarily to the turkey.

POLICE ARREST YOUTH

For Firing Pistol. Police arrested Roger T. Lyman, 18, of Carter Road Monday for illegal possession and use of fireworks. He was accused of firing a blank "starter's pistol" in the air on Spruce Street July 11.

Lyman was charged with violating a provision of the New Jersey Anti-Fireworks Law. He was released upon posting $100 bail.

REPAVING ANNOUNCED

For Portion of Rte. 206. The State Highway Department has announced that it will resurface a portion of Route 206 on or about July 31.

The portion involved lies north of Township Hall for about one and a quarter miles. The road will be resurfaced with a layer about two and one-half inches thick.

OUTING SPONSORED

By Knights of Columbus. Princeton Council 638, Knights of Columbus, sponsored a concert and picnic Sunday for the residents of Morris Hall, Lawrenceville.

The afternoon activities were attended by both the residents of Morris Hall and the Sisters of St. Francis. The junior band of Trenton Post 93, American Legion, furnished the music.

RCA STRIKES BACK

TIROS to Hunt Hurricanes

As if in return for the havoc wrought by Hurricane Donna as she passed through Princeton last year, RCA's Astro-Electronics Division designed the latest United States weather satellite, TIROS III, specifically to hunt hurricanes. The drum-shaped satellite went up last week and immediately began to investigate the breeding grounds of the big winds.

Scientists hope that TIROS III, passing over the Atlantic and Caribbean during the hurricane season, will permit early detection of the storms as they develop over the ocean before threatening the land. The data supplied by the satellite should also contribute to a better understanding of the environment in which such storms breed, and—in the far future—possibly to controlling the destructive storms.

Like its predecessors, TIROS I and II, the latest weather satellite was built at the Astro-Electronics Division of the Radio Corporation of America, located on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. It differs from the earlier models in that it has two wide-angle television cameras (rather than only one) and some added equipment to measure heat waves.

Now that TIROS III is up and operating, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will "turn off" TIROS II, which has been operating for the past seven months (although it was only supposed to last three months). TIROS II was launched November 23, while the first weather satellite, TIROS I, went up on April 1, 1960.

To Measure Heat Absorption. Although the replacement of the narrow-angle television camera carried in TIROS I and II with a second wide-angle camera was no real addition, the inclusion of the heat-wave measuring equipment was. This device measures both the heat (infrared) radiation from the sun and from the earth. From these figures, scientists can calculate how much of the sun's radiation the earth absorbs.

TIROS III, like the two earlier weather satellites, will receive instructions as it passes over the United States and to when it should take pictures. It stores the photographs on tape and then sends them to ground stations when it is again in range.

Abraham Schnapf, project manager, headed the engineering team which developed TIROS III. He noted that one of the more important but less obvious changes in TIROS III was the substitution of electronic "clocks" for the mechanical models contained in the earlier weather satellites.

The clocks are required to set the cameras in operation at predetermined times. In TIROS I and II these clocks were composed of moving parts, but in TIROS III the clocks are made of transistors, the same miniature electronic devices which have proved so important in portable radios.

Two Join Trinity Staff

Trinity Episcopal Church has announced the addition of two new staff members. The Rev. Martin Clark has been appointed curate, while Harold J. Wilson has been named deacon, to assist the Rev. Charles G. Newbery at All Saints' Chapel.

Father Clark arrived in the United States earlier this month from England to study the operation of the Episcopal Church here. A graduate of Oxford, he served in Middlesborough, Yorks, England, under the present Archbishop of Canterbury prior to coming to Trinity Episcopal.

Mr. Wilson graduated from the General Theological Seminary this June. A native of West Virginia, he will make his home in Princeton with his wife and new-born child.

installation ceremonies to Donald W. Griffin for his guidance in staging the Memorial Day programs; to the Princeton Herald, Frederick S. Osborne, editor; and to the Arthur J. Turney Motor Company.

HOPEWELL GROUP SPEAKS

Chamber Assails Council

In an eight-page mimeographed statement mailed last week to every taxpayer in the Borough of Hopewell, the Hopewell Valley Chamber of Commerce explains why it thinks that Council acted in an "improper" and "illegal" manner in the recent controversy over extending Lafayette Street. The Chamber sent out approximately 540 statements.

On April 24, Council passed an ordinance providing that the Borough bear the entire cost of paving and curbing the 2,100 ft. of a mile Lafayette extension. The ordinance replaces a 1922 statute which stipulated that paving costs be borne by abutting property owners and the Borough on a 50-50 basis.

Lafayette must be extended to provide access to loading docks which are part of a new addition to the Rockwell Manufacturing Company.

"The new ordinance," says the Chamber's statement, "goes beyond the judicious spending of tax money for paving curbs, and extends beyond a gift to Rockwell. It establishes a whole new unnecessary policy, and extends unwarranted gifts to Councilmen Castoro and Hill and to anyone else having paving and curbs installed in the Borough's in the future."

Councilmen Joseph H. Castoro and Joseph B. Hill, II, own property that abuts on the new street. Mr. Hill voted against the new ordinance because of conflict of interest. Mr. Castoro announced his decision to abstain for the same reason, but cast an affirmative vote when the Hopewell Borough attorney told him he had to vote one way or another.

Would Rockwell Move Away? The Rockwell company pays about $10,000 a year in taxes to Hopewell, and will pay more when the new addition is finished. In addition, the company employs between 30 and 40 residents of the area. Some Hopewell taxpayers have expressed the fear that, unless the Borough paid the entire cost of the essential Lafayette extension, Rockwell would move to another community.

One member of the Chamber reports that another member of the group has received anonymous phone calls charging him with "trying to drive Rockwell out of town".

Representatives of the Chamber had appeared at Council meetings when the ordinance was being considered, to express the group's opposition to the new measure. Later, the Chamber circulated a petition urging the restoration of the 1922 ordinance.

BUSINESS INDEX

The Spring Quarter. Economists who looked at the nation as the second 1961 business quarter drew to a close found a more serene picture than they had seen the year before. For Princeton, also the picture was better, although, for Princeton, it had never been particularly dark.

The Federal Reserve Board says that the recession began in May, 1960, and reached its low point in the first quarter of 1961. By May, 1961, however, business had begun to turn upward and the quarterly statistics from Princeton reflect some of this upward turn.

New car sales, always a national barometer, were significant 35 percent higher in Princeton in this spring quarter than they were in the winter quarter. The two percent decline from last year is not regarded as significant since it represents only 12 cars in total figures that approach the 500 mark.

Throughout the nation, automobile dealers were reported "clearing" and national sales for the middle ten days of June were 17 percent above sales in the first part of the same month.

As it to demonstrate Princeton's remoteness from the recession and its relative economic immunity to swings of the prosperity pendulum, last spring's TOWN TOPICS index shows that new car sales were ten percent higher than they had been in June, 1959.

Deposits Up. Savings and checkings accounts, three important money-in-the-bank figures, have risen steadily in Princeton in the past two years. In the current index, the figures show 19 percent more money in savings than last year. In the June, 1960, index, savings were four and one-half percent higher than they had been in 1959.

One indication of where and how the money is spent is the steady rise in parking meter receipts, representing the pennies and nickels deposited by people who are shopping in Princeton stores. These receipts have shown a steady increase of two to 21 percent each quarter for the past two years, except for quarters in which there were heavy snowstorms to pare down the receipts.

The sharp leap in unemployment claims is traceable, in part, to the new state-federal TEC program under which workers with long spells of unemployment could file claims for extended unemployment compensation payments.

At the end of the quarter there were some 8,500 unemployed in the Trenton area, of which 800 were said to be in the Princeton area. State unemployment files do not separate Princeton figures from figures for Trenton as a whole, and so the local percentages are the state's statistical guess.

Throughout Mercer County non-farm employment showed a constant rise during the spring quarter, due chiefly to seasonal spurts in construction and service field. Average weekly earnings in the county increased 3.8 percent.

Princeton itself, in spite of its unemployed, still remains a town in which there are more jobs (clerical and secretarial, mostly) than people to fill them. An employment agency reports 150 more jobs listings that is, vacant jobs waiting to be filled) than a year ago.

Progress Ahead. During this spring quarter, the Mercer County Industrial Commission released an economic progress report covering the 12 months between February, 1960, and February, 1961. The report seems to indicate that continuing expansion and prosperity will be the climate for Princeton and its neighbors for some time to come.

Among the expanding activities the Commission includes in the revised plans of American Cyanamid to employ about 500 persons, instead of the 300 originally planned for the center, the purchase of a 385-acre tract in a West Windsor area zoned for research and light manufacturing. National Lead's plans for a research center in East Windsor to employ over 150 persons, the establishment of Princeton Electronics Corporation in the Skillman building on Alexander Street, RCA's plan for a new space vehicle test center and the Rockwell Manufacturing Company's $425,000 expansion in Hopewell.

MOVES ON THE SQUARE

At 33 and 69. The face of Palmer Square West will change this fall when two tenants move into larger quarters.

The Prep and Junior Shop, boys' and young men's clothing shop owned by Walter D. Servis, Jr., will move from its present location at 69 Palmer Square to the space on Hulfish Street now occupied by the New Jersey Bankers Association. The Bankers Association is building an office on North Harrison Street.

The new location, adjoining the Princeton Playhouse on the east, will give the shop approximately 1600 square feet of space, 400 feet more than 69 Palmer Square West.

Mr. Servis started The Prep and Junior Shop in September, 1950, in a single store on Chambers Street. Eventually, he expanded into two and then three adjoining addresses on Chambers. He moved into his Palmer Square location in 1955 and at one time occupied a second store on the Square as well. Later, he consolidated his inventories into one address, using the basement for a line of "husky" and student sizes. No new tenant has so far been announced for 69 Palmer Square.

In the second Palmer Square move, Kase Kleaners, which has been sub-leasing the premises at 33 Palmer Square from G. R. Murray, Inc., insurance and real estate, will move out to make way for the expansion of the insurance firm.

to find the original dies for some of his lamps. For others, only a few parts were available and new dies were made to replace the missing parts.

Mr. Thompson has been keenly interested in old lamps for many years, and in his travels as a salesman, he has collected hundreds of photographs of the various antique lamps he has found over the country. He has examples of almost every kind of early street lantern, most of them photographs of lamps purchased by property owners when big cities converted street lights from gas to electricity.

Mr. Thompson says, with feeling, that it is difficult to purchase these old lamps from people who own them. "Owners are reluctant to sell them for any price," he says gloomily.

It is this reluctance that is, in part, responsible for Mr. Thompson's decision to make reproductions, as authentic as possible, and to offer them for sale to people who, like himself, find a warmth and nostalgia in the old lamps, and who have sufficiently discriminating taste to want authenticity.

SUMMER GALLERY

Oils, Block Prints. Summer at The Little Gallery on Palmer Square has brought a variety of collections, comprising such media as oil, water-color, tempera and the sturdy wood block.

William Freeland's charming water-colors have a freshness and light that should appeal even to people who don't like abstractions. Two of his water-colors are, in fact, representational. One is a stream through a summer meadow, another is a big tree by a brook, both sketched with light greens that have the taste of summer.

Dudley Morris's well-known affinity for remote, grey mist landscapes that envelop remote and lonely people appears again in a collection of his tempera works. One is a study of greys and browns: a grey mist over a lowland. Another presents two children and their dog walking through a late winter landscape.

Kupferman sends an eight-foot high canvas which he has used to work out, in heavy oil, a tall, curving tree, rising from the greys and greens of ground shrubbery to a lofty myrtle blue sky. Canvas is two feet wide.

A new artist to the Gallery is Francis Tucker of Philadelphia, represented by a collection of small oils done outdoors in South Jersey.

A young painter named William Uter Mohlen has done two arresting oils in which the Spanish influence is sombre and strong. One, a very small canvas, is a highly lacquered symbolic oil in which a madonna figure and an embryo swim in a sea of fine, detailed scroll-like lines, painted with Dali-esque precision in red, blue and gold.

One of the happiest groups now at the Gallery is the delightful assemblage of wood cuts and linoleum block prints by Helen Seigl. Matted in burlap, these enchanting cuts of children and absurd little animals are priced from $7.50 to $25, a range which makes them available for anything from hostess gifts to wedding presents.

One of the largest, showing a gracefully curved standing otter with a fish, is particularly appealing. So is the saucy parade of masquerading children. Buy one or two for a child's room and let him see how a fine craftsman combines art and craft.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK—1
(This is the first of a series of four articles on Princeton football prospects for 1961.)

Eight Starters Lost. A year from now, Dick Colman and his coaching associates will have the smallest replacement problem experienced by Princeton football within memory. Only ten members of the Class of 1962 will go to Blairstown on September 14 and only four figure to hold down starting positions.

But that's part of the future, and the present replacement problem is as rugged as any an Orange and Black squad has faced in a decade or more. Seventeen players have departed from the Tiger entry that surprised everyone with its fine second-place finish in the Ivy standings. All of them saw action in the final game, the 7-0 drama that brought the first victory over Dartmouth since 1957.

Not only were eight of the 17 starters, but graduation created wholesale losses in several key positions—notably at center and at tailback, and to a considerable degree at both guard and tackle. The search for a starting center and at least one good replacement is the number one problem facing the Tigers this season.

Largely in the shadow of the highly-regarded but eventually disappointing Class of 1960 for two of its three years on the varsity, '61 came into its own last fall. The one-two punch that Hugh Scott and Jack Sullivan provided at tailback; the fine years that Jerry Sullivan and Dick Eckfeldt had at center, the elevation to all-Ivy status of Jim Blair at end, and the good seasons credited to tackle Stan Baldwin and guards Stan Shaughnessy and Matt Tobriner, all make filling the gaps they left as tough a replacement problem as any Ivy team faces in 1961.

By positions, these are the players who have concluded their careers:

End: A major loss, but only one. Jim Blair, a starting lineman for three years and the team's top pass receiver for the last two. He'll be missed, but end is one of the few spots on the squad where numerous replacements are available.

Tackles: Both starters, Stan Baldwin and John Craig, and a good reserve, Clark Wudley. Baldwin came along extremely well in a new position after making the switch from guard at the start of the 1960 season. Craig, who saw more action (909 plays out of 1383) than any other player last fall, was a highly dependable lineman whose eligibility was completed in two years following his transfer from Oklahoma.

Guards: Both starters here, too, are gone. Stan Shaughnessy, who began as a center and became a very valuable guard conversion, and Matt Tobriner, who started as a sophomore Jayvee and finished as a top lineman in his senior year. Both were fine two-way players. Adding to the replacement problem here is the graduation of Gerry Norton, a two-year letterman and frequently-used reserve.

Centers: Between them, Jerry Sullivan and Dick Eckfeldt were used in all but 141 of the plays last fall—well over 80 percent of the time. Sullivan was a known quantity, but Eckfeldt, who had not previously won a letter, proved to be a tower of defense as linebacker. Every one of the half-dozen candidates to succeed them is strictly what Charlie Caldwell picturesquely called "a green pea."

Wingbacks: Numerically as hard hit as any position on the team, with three lettermen graduated, but not quite as seriously, since all were reserves. Gone are Mike Isemen, who played about a quarter of the time as a senior; John MacMurray and Ron Goldman, all of whom showed ability to play the position but never matched the ability of Dan Terpack, who beat them all to the starting assignment last year as a sophomore.

Quarterback: Lightest loss of all, with rarely-used Jon Hagstrum the lone graduate. Hagstrum ran the junior varsity. Hagstrum was captain of the good 1961 freshman eleven but was overshadowed by other quarterbacks during his three years on the varsity.

Fullbacks: Inexperience will be a problem here, too, since Captain Don Kornrumpf and brewster Loud divided better than 75 percent of the playing time last fall. Kornrumpf averaged 3.6 yards per carry through the middle and tied Jack Sullivan for the scoring lead with 42 points on the season. Loud, merely a place-kicking specialist in his first two years, came along well to serve as his principal replacement.

AMONG THE MISSING: Jerry Sullivan (right) and Hugh Scott are among the 16 seniors whose graduation has caused major replacement problems for Coach Dick Colman and his staff. Both were three-year letter winners. Sullivan as a center, Scott as a standout tailback who was an all-Ivy choice in 1960.

Tailbacks: The tremendous one-two punch that Hugh Scott and Jack Sullivan provided for three full years is gone, and the replacement problem is a rugged one. Between them, they:

- Gained a total of 1455 yards rushing—better than 75 percent of Princeton's offense in this department.
- Completed more than 50 percent of their passes for 629 yards—almost 90 percent of the Tigers' aerial attack:
- Accounted for 17 touchdowns, running or passing, out of the 35 Princeton made last year. On any logical basis, it is almost a foregone conclusion that their combined ability will not be matched by any two players from the 1961 Princeton squad.

Next Week: The Sophomores

DUMPEL WINS TENNIS

Victor in Field of 44. Second-seeded Fritz Dumpel defeated Mark Rose 10-8, 6-4 to win the YMCA Men's Singles tennis tournament. The tournament, delayed twice by rain, had 44 participants.

Dumpel, who arrived in this country from the Netherlands a year ago, lost only one match in the course of the tournament. Rose, who was seeded number five, moved into the finals after a quarter-final default by first-seeded Dr. Yale Tyler (who was out of town) and a semi-final victory over John Chandler.

In the semi-finals, Dumpel defeated David Mackenzie, 7-5, 8-6, and Rose defeated Chandler 9-7, 4-6, 6-0. In the quarter-finals, it was Dumpel over Bayard Jordan, 7-5, 2-6 and 6-2; Mackenzie over Jack Ferns, 6-2, 6-3; Chandler over David Smoyer by default; and Rose over Tyler by default.

The mixed doubles tournament began this week, with play in the men's and women's doubles scheduled to begin next Monday, July 24. Entries may be made on the bulletin boards at the University tennis courts or at the YMCA office.

PAC IN THREE-WAY TIE

At Half-way Mark. With the season half finished, the Princeton Athletic Club is tied with South Brunswick and Montgomery Township for first place in the Tri-County Baseball League. All have identical 4-3 marks, with Hightstown last at 2-5.

Montgomery will provide the opposition this Thursday night at 6:15 on Bill Clarke Field, east of Palmer Stadium. Games next week send Princeton to Hightstown on Tuesday and bring South Brunswick here on Thursday.

Montgomery blanked the PAC, 15-0, last week as Charlie "Lefty" Brogan threw a no-hitter. Ted Lubas and Ted Drake each hit safely three times, while Ken Luck and Joe LaMonte homered. In the only other game played last week, South Brunswick trounced Hightstown, 13-1. Thursday's schedule was washed out.

The Princeton Athletic Club this week is making its annual appeal for funds which are needed to meet the cost of bats, balls, uniforms, umpires' fees and player insurance. Contributions to help keep summer baseball going after more than a half-century on the Princeton scene may be sent to B. E. Bergesen, Jr., 188 Nassau Street. Checks should be made payable to the Princeton Athletic Club.

ENGINE NO. 1 MOVES UP

Ties Post 76 for Lead. Two victories last week boosted Engine Co. No. 1 into a first-place tie with Post 76 in the Police Little League. Half a game behind them in the tight race are the Sportsmen, who also won twice.

With Skitch Donald striking out 15—one short of the league record held by Billy Cirullo—Engine Co. No. 1 trimmed the Eagles, 8 to 1. Mark Hultum, Tim Flood and Pat McManimon were the leading hitters for the victors. An extra-inning contest against the Elks also went to Engine Co. No. 1, 5 to 2.

Post 76 likewise won a pair but dropped a third game, a suspended contest with the Sportsmen. One of the latter team's victories was a one-hitter, credited to Walt Brower against the Lions. Brower, Bob Bartolino, Bob Rosso and Tom Rosso and Tom Aust have been hitting well for the Sportsmen.

Hook and Ladder lost twice.

"Say! How do you like your Rambler?"

EVERYTHING WORKS -NOTHING RATTLES!"
Busy mother of 3, Mrs. Richard Manville, Westport, Conn.: "I thought all wagons were 'trucks' till I drove a Rambler. Rear fifth door is the greatest! With children, stroller and bicycles we're luxuriously uncrowded. All for about $1000 less!"

"HAS NEVER LET ME DOWN!"
Salesman Martin H Stalley, Clinton, Iowa: "Over all kinds of roads, 100° to 30° below, Rambler has never let me down . . . in 54,000 miles."

"100,000 MILES—TOTAL REPAIRS $25 35!"
Chief Petty Officer George P. Morris, U. S. Coast Guard, Ipswich, Mass.: "I've owned 6 American Motors cars. The wagon is one in a million. '59, replaced heater control, $5.80. '61, valves ground, $19.55. Total $25.35 at 100,000 miles!"

"REPAIRSPRACTICALLY NON EXISTENT!"
Publisher Bill Farden of Fishing & Hunting News, Spokane: "For over seven years we have staked our deadline on these dependable automobiles over the toughest going in the Northwest. We have yet to receive a call from a staff man stranded in a Rambler."

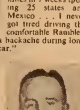
"TAKES ROUGH ROADS WITHOUT A WHIMPER!"
Author-canoeist Randolph H. Carter, Warrenton, Virginia: "I always use a Rambler for canoe trips. Makes up into an excellent bed. Wonderful mileage. Can 'take' the rough roads and trails without a whimper. No better car for the outdoor man."

"MORE ROOM THAN THE OLD BIG 3!"
Family man William J. Heath of Tulsa, Oklahoma: "Like others we had felt anything smaller than the old big 3 was too small. How wrong we were! We have so much more room there's no comparison!"

"6' 4½"—UNBELIEVABLY COMFORTABLE!"
Tall R. Jonathan Meigs of Chestnut Hill, Mass.: "13,000 miles in 7 weeks touring 25 states and Mexico . . . I never got tired driving the comfortable Rambler. I always used to get a backache during long drives in my former car."

"DOESN'T RATTLE, LEAK; HASN'T COST ONE DIME!"
Realtor Paul C. Hosfeldt of Porterville, California: "I own 3 cars—highest-priced, low-priced, and Rambler—and I hate to drive the others. Rambler is the only car that doesn't rattle or leak; handles better even without power steering which the other cars had."

"MILEAGE ALMOST DOUBLED!"
Company president Loren M. Wood, Wood & Anderson, St. Louis, Mo.: "Mileage is practically double (about 30 mpg) that which I got formerly. Ease of handling and parking of the Rambler (American) is far better."



"IMPASSABLE ROADS—NOT EVEN A SQUEAK!"
Salesman Fredrick W. Machon, of Niles, California: "Our 30-day trip through Latin America took us over boulders, creek beds, almost impassable roads. No trouble—not even a squeak in the Rambler."

"21,000 MILES—25¢ FOR A LIGHT BULB!"
Retired U. S. Air Force instructor, Harold Hedger, Loveland, Colo.: "Averaged 26 mpg (in Rambler American). Only repair expense was two bits for a dome light bulb after 21,000 miles."

"THANKS FOR BUILDING SUCH FINE CARS!"
Optometrist Dr Charlotte Marsteller, Uniontown, Penna.: "My first American Motors car was purchased just before Pearl Harbor. Drove it all through the war without one bit of trouble. Have owned seven of your cars."

"A TIGER ON THE ROAD—A MOUSE WITH GAS!"
Supermarket merchandiser Burt Hoffman, Jackson Heights, N.Y.: "Making 20-30 short hops a day, I never got more than 18 mpg—now I get 25 in a Rambler (American)."

Miss Elizabeth Thornell of 22 Morven Place died in Princeton Hospital on July 16 after a lengthy illness. One of Princeton's oldest residents, she was 97.

Born June 8, 1864, in New York City, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Thornell. She moved to Princeton about the turn of the century, living with her mother at the corner of Bayard and Cleveland Lane.

After the death of her mother, she made her home with her brother-in-law and sister, the late Prof. and Mrs. William Kerr, for many years on Hibben-Randolph Road and, after Prof. Kerr's death, on Maple Street. She was active for many years in behalf of Princeton Hospital and was one of the original members and officers of its Ladies Auxiliary. She also belonged to the Present Day Club and the English Speaking Union.

Two nephews and a niece survive. One of her nephews is Henry L. T. Koren, born and raised in Princeton and recently Counselor of the American Embassy in Manila. He is now serving with the State Department in Washington.

The service was held at the First Presbyterian Church, of which she was a member, with the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Mersel, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery under direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Mrs. Anita Gwynne Mestres died July 16 at her home, 86 Battle Road, after a long illness. She was the wife of Ricardo A. Mestres, financial vice-president and treasurer of Princeton University.

Mrs. Mestres was a member of Trinity Episcopal Church. She also belonged to the Garden Club of Princeton and the Ladies Auxiliary of McCosh Infirmary.

In addition to her husband, she leaves a son, Ricardo A. Jr., of New York and Lee G. of Sao Paulo, Brazil; her mother, Mrs. W. Lee Gwynne of Del Ray Beach, Fla., a sister, Mrs. E. Kimbork MacColl of Portland, Ore., and five grandchildren.

The funeral was held at Trinity Church with the rector, the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Spears, Jr., officiating. Burial was in Kensico Cemetery, Valhalla, N. Y., under direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Mrs. Agnes Griswold Pyne, 74, of Clearbrook Farm, Hertontown Road, died July 12 in Dallas, Texas.

Her husband was the late Moses T. Pyne, Jr., for many years associated with the Steel Equipment Corp. of Rahway. He was the son of the Pennsylvania Railroad executive who was a liberal benefactor of Princeton University in the late 19th and early 20th century.

Born in New York, she was a graduate of the Brearley School. She had been a Princeton resident for the past 45 years.

Mrs. Pyne was a member of Trinity Episcopal Church. She also belonged to the Present Day Club, the ladies auxiliaries of Princeton Hospital and McCosh Infirmary and held honorary life-time membership in the Navy League.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Agnes Pyne Cake of Dallas, four grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, a sister and three brothers. A memorial service at Trinity Church was followed by burial in Princeton Cemetery.

Moves Up on Sportsmen. The second shutout in a row credited to Butch Chambers gave King's Inn a 9-0 triumph Tuesday over the Sportsmen in softball action. The result narrowed the gap between the second and third place teams to half a game, giving the Sportsmen a 10-7 mark and King's Inn an 11-7 record.

The victors broke the game open in the fourth with a five-run outburst, adding clusters of two in the next two innings. Held to two hits, the Sportsmen were charged with three errors. Last Thursday's games were rained out and this week's contest between Hinkson's and Ivy Inn was not reported at TOWN TOPICS' press-time.

WATER COMPANY LEADS

In Junior Baseball. A five-for-five performance has sent the Princeton Water Company team far out in front in Junior Baseball League action. Bowers is in second place, but has only nine points compared to the leaders' 25.

In action during the past week, the Water Company edged Bowers, 8-7, behind the pitching of Don Cooper and Tom Sculerati, and was then credited with a forfeit victory over Nassau Oil. Bowers and Matthews played to a 7-7 tie, while Nassau Oil and Matthews were rained out.

This week's schedule sends Bowers against Nassau Oil on Thursday and the Water Company against Matthews on Friday. Bowers and the Water Company meet Monday, with all games played at 6:15 at Princeton High School.

The Water Company's 25 points are based on five for each victory. Following Bowers' nine are Nassau Oil and Matthews with eight apiece.

DEAR TRAVELEX,

Well, we left you in the lurch in Paris last week!

We'll have all day Saturday (Oct. 14) to roam around as we please. Saturday night I see we've got great plans. We'll go up one bank and down the other, visiting different kinds of night spots. Enjoy the music and dancing as we go! We'll wind up at the Moulin Rouge on Place Pigalle.

Sunday morning we'll be off to Vienna and the woods mit der waltzes!

Do you think October will EVER get here?

Impatiently,

Nancy

if you have beaucoup d'argent,
DON'T CALL!

Our tale of a new type of house that provides more space for less bucks is dull stuff for mansion dwellers. But if you're not averse to spending money wisely and you rather like the idea of plenty of room and light and air — inside as well as out, then let's talk. We'd like to explain and show you our concept of a new type of light-hearted living that we deeply believe in — the Techbuilt House.

WATCH OUR AD FOR THE FIRST RELEASE ON LLANFAIR AT PRINCETON, BY FAR THE MOST BEAUTIFUL HOME SITES EVER AVAILABLE IN PRINCETON.

Not showy, but comfortable with ivy climbing its two stories, we offer this three bedroom home. on a quiet street near the Riverside School, with f/p, corner cupboards, powder room, garage and basement. Well priced at $26,000

We can't adequately describe this property because it's truly one-of-a-kind. If you want a lot in Princeton on the water, and pay $18,000, don't miss seeing it. Old Princeton residents particularly would love it.

Formal Colonial in Borough. Large panelled family room, four bedrooms, 2½ baths, two car garage, basement, air conditioned.

There are not many homes in the Johnson Park school district priced below $30,000, but here is one—Salt box on a cul-de-sac with three bedrooms (one dormitory size), with family room, dining room, f/p, truly secluded patio and trees. $28,900

In an elegant area, this sprawling ranch boasts of exceptionally large living room with beamed ceiling, with bar and fireplace, bay window dining room with Dutch doors to screened patio, modern equipped kitchen, three lovely bedrooms, and many other quality features. $46,500.

How can we describe in print the lovely care this Township ranch has received, its practicality of layout, imaginative planning of private patio. Here are six lovely rooms, f/p, large basement, two-car garage, within walking distance of Riverside School. $36,200

We can't say much about a split level that hasn't been said before, BUT we can say this one is priced right. It's in fine condition, its one-half acre is well landscaped, its three bedrooms, rec room, and lovely patio would suit a family, and it's near Littlebrook school. $28,500
